

Sustainable Fashion Design

RU
FA

Fashion is civilization.

The history of human cultures goes along with the history of clothing. In the global acceleration of our present, there is a need for reflection on the meaning of fashion in the contemporary world, to be fully aware of its immediate and future impact on the environment, understood as a natural, cultural and social habitat where everything is interconnected. You will learn how to formulate creative, yet conscious thinking thanks to the course's transdisciplinary approach, which provides technical skills and stimulates critical reflection on the cultural and business models of the fashion system, with a view to sustainability, inclusion and circularity. This is your opportunity to lead the fashion industry towards an effective ecological transition.
